

Anne Pflug

Anne Pflug is retired after 30 years of service in local and state government. She currently teaches public management topics at Central Washington University in her home town of Ellensburg and at the University of Washington Evans School of Public Policy.

Ms Pflug has worked in local government management positions in Washington and Oregon. She has served in local government as a City Manager, City Administrator, Finance Director and Planning Director. She currently serves as a senior advisor to City and County Managers for the International City County Management Association.

Tracy Burrows

Tracy has been the Executive Director of the Municipal Research and Services Center (MRSC) of Washington State since 2011. She has over 25 years of local government and non-profit experience, specializing in government performance, transportation, intergovernmental affairs, and city management issues. She has worked for the Seattle Department of Transportation and the City of Kirkland, Washington where she provided leadership on regional, state and federal issues related to transportation, public safety, and governance.